This information is very hard to find on the Internet, because these companies try to discourage receiving unsolicited scripts, and so they rarely publicize their internal directories or employee names. They are bombarded by these contacts and could not do their work if they had to deal with these all the time, so it's natural that they do not publicize this information. LinkedIn has a few names but this is not the whole company roster, and when I looked at it today no one person corresponds to what you're looking for.
