

DBERR announce Â£30 million technology fund

Contributed by Calum Haswell
Tuesday, 02 December 2008

DBERR has announced a new £30 million fund to invest in technology companies looking to expand their business. This fund will be used to invest development capital in information technology, electronics and instrumentation companies. This fund is part of the Enterprise Capital Funds (ECF) programme, which aims to help small and medium-sized businesses that may otherwise struggle to find support from investors.